Slacker Magazine

Slacker magazine, like any true slacker, does not follow rules blindly and creates its own way of doing things. There is no definite layout to Slacker. All 72 pages are uniquely designed and illustrated. Thats more than 50 illustrations per issue. To give it some true slack, actual hand-lettering was incorporated, making it a real versatile and creative pleasure to experience. Thats the level of personality a true cultural slacker can relate to.